

Meta Design Challenge Kick-off Events

*A Series of Hackathon by TSEA & UID's Happy Digital X
Program to Empower Distributed Local Communities Globally
Through Literacy in Online Project Management Methods and Tools*

Main Objective

To successfully conduct small hackathon/writathon-like events that serve as educational workshops for helping potential participants of any ICT skill levels to start using existing and popularly practiced data exchange/collaboration tools, (i.e. Git/Github/Gitlab services,) as well as open source or free-of-charge project management tools (e.g. Phabricator and Asana).

These events would then be upscaled into bigger hackathon programs that aim to enable a larger population to be competent in organizing and exchanging resources using the already ubiquitous mobile and cloud-based computing resources. The programs will demonstrate the benefits of using existing and low cost collaboration tool to alleviate imminent social pressures such as food distribution and work opportunities.
